

Alternative Instructional Design processes & Models

This is a sample of a model actually being tested in the School of Information Studies. IST 679 is being taught in 2 sections, one online and one on-campus. The instructor is webcasting the on-campus lectures for the online students, and archiving a video tape of the sessions so that both on-campus and online students can view later.

